

NOTHING SUCCEEDS LIKE SUCCESS!

The Autohomes Kamper based on the VW Transporter was Britain's best selling motor caravan in 1983 and '84 and also won the Motor Caravanners Club 1984 Concours D'Elegance award for the best elevating roof motor caravan. It is still the only Volkswagen caravan with a rigid, double-skinned and fully insulated elevating roof that also provides full headroom over the high level double bed. The Kamper will seat six people in forward facing seats, sleep four adults in comfort and privacy in two upholstered double beds, and convert into a roomy estate car, while offering a very high standard of fittings and equipment – a success story, indeed.

The success of the Kamper has been complemented by two VW 'high top' models – the Kameo and the Karisma – which have been specifically designed for two people, although a child's cab bed is available as an optional extra. By virtue of their sensible and practical layout and design the Kameo and Karisma are incredibly spacious inside and have more uncluttered floor space than any other caravans based on the Volkswagen Transporter.

We genuinely believe the Kameo to be the best value VW motor caravan of all time, while the Karisma's exceptionally comprehensive standard equipment includes water heater, flush toilet, second battery, control panel, gas/12 volt refrigerator, waste water tank, cocktail cabinet, crockery, swivelling passenger cab seat, large roof rack and even a built-in television which is easily removable for use in the home.

It's hardly surprising that Autohomes' three VW based conversions nearly outsold all their VW based competitors put together in 1984! Kamper, Kameo and Karisma destined for success throughout the '80's!
